The Canada Railroad Riot. ARMED LABORERS IN POSSESSION OF THE BOAD—T'AE
MILITARY CALLED UPON EXAMINATION OF FRE
PRISONERS—FUNERAL OF THE MURDERED MAN.

BUFFALO, Jan. 23-10 7. M. The laborers on the Buffalo, Brantford and Cooderiol Bailroad still have possession of the track at Cayuga, C. W., about thirty miles east of Brantford, where, fully armed, they have assembled to the number of 150. Yesberday meroing the directors, with fifty men, took the riving at the spot they found the lab erers too strong for directors and their company, being unarmed, were obliged to beg permission to return to Brantford. The aberiffs of the counties of Niagara, Haldimund and Brant have been called upon, and will take fifty British soldiers from Niagara village, to-morrow, and pro-seed to the scene of riot, when the road, R is expected, will be opened, and when some, the laborers will be paid off, for which money is ready, and discharged. After this is done, no fur ther trouble is apprehended.

The examination of the man who killed Weimper, with isteen other prisoners, was finished to-day at Fort Rrie, he being held for wilful murder, and the others as accessories. They will be immediately removed to the jail at Niagara village. Weimpel's funeral took place today in this city, from the house of his mother, and was attended by a large concourse of citizens.

Boston, Jan. 23, 1855. About ten o'clock last night as the express train from New York passed Clappville, the switch rod broke, throwing the engine, tender, baggage and four passenger cars off the track, and one car down a bank twenty-the express train, we learn that the engine passed over track. The baggage car ran off the track and along the edge of the embankment. The first passenger car was thrown lengthwise across the track. The second passenger car as thrown down the embankment some nding nearly perpendicular, the upper end breaking into the forward part of the next car, which, with the last car, ran along the edge of the embankment, but, fortunately, did not go down. As soon as possible attempts were made to rescue those in the fallen car, and some were drawn out through the windows. One man had his boot torn but beyond a few slight bruises, no one was hurt. There were about 175 passengers in the train. Mr. Hobart, the sonductor, and Mr. Lovett, the superintendent of the House telegraph live, proceeded to Worcester, a distance of nine miles, on a hand car, and obtained another train

Philadelphia Roweles in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23, 1855.

A gang of Philadelphia rowdies visited our city yes terday, and last night roamed through the streets, making night hideous with their noise. On their way they encountered a mad named Peter Sherlock, and beat him severely. This morning the friends of the injured man met the party in a tavern near 'the Holiday streat theatre, and a general fight ensued. One of the gang was badly beaten during the row. E. W. Paul drew a partot and shoursames covery, or this city, in the thigh; the would is not serious. The whole party was finally the Philadelphians:—James Cady, Joseph E. McGee, George W. Canley, E. W. Paul. Paul is said to be the beeper of the Third Ward House, Philadelphia.

To the Editor of the New York Herald.—The executive skill exhibited by Mr. Oliver B. Goldsmith, in every department of peamanship, and the rapid and strking progress of his pupils, have long since achieved for him a national reputation. To enlarge upon these points would be only to repeat a thrise told tale—to recapitulate facts familiar as nonschold words throughout the length and breadth of the Union. Such is not the object of this communication, which is intended simply as a tribute of admiration to the refined tasts which has thrown around the most perfect and successful system of instruction ever introduced in any practical branch of education, the most wincing attractions. Mr. Geldsmith's suit of rooms, No. 382 Broadway, consists of five elegant apartments, opening into each other, all beautifully furnished, and affording such facilities, both for class teaching and private lessons, as I am well assured are not equalled on this continent or in Europe. During a month's sojourn in New York, I have been a frequent visiter at his rooms, and have notonly acquired under his tuition a fair, bold, symmetrical business and, but derived much gratification from the society I have met there. Many of Mr. G.'s pupils are due musiciaus, and occasionally relieve the fatigue of study by "discoursing most excellent masic" from one of the most splendid pianos I have ever seen. Mr Goldsmith's acholars comprise many members of the leading families of New York, but the advantages of his unrivalled system of tuition are not conflicted to these. His classes for ladies and gentlemen afford opportunities for obtaining the best possible instruction in the most indispensable of all accomplishments, at prices so reasonable, as compared with the benefit derived, that they may well be called nominal. I am so thoroughly satisfied that Mr. Goldsmith stands alone in this country as a teacher of penmanship, that I could not leave New York without adding my mite to the general approbation which has accompanied and must continue to accompany
